Introduction

Our aim is to provide access to the collections that we hold; however, this access will be affected by:

Legislation

The Freedom of Information Act 2000 grants the right of access to information held by public bodies, such as the County (Borough) Councils within the Greater Gwent area, local Community Councils, hospitals, etc. The Data Protection Act 2018 (the UK's implementation of the EU's General Data Protection Regulation) aims to protect personal information about living individuals. It also entitles you to copies of information held about you.

Because of the Data Protection Act 2018, access is restricted to certain records held by Gwent Archives. This is mainly to protect the people named within them. It is presumed that a lifetime lasts 100 years.<sup>1</sup> Therefore Gwent Archives restricts access to these records until the end of a person's lifetime.

For example, a school admission register has a 96-year closure, as it is presumed all data subjects are aged 4 and above; whereas school staff records have an 84-year closure period, since it is presumed all data subjects are aged 16 and above. Some very sensitive classes of records, such as Children's Home Admission Registers have a 100-year closure period.

Depositor Restrictions

It is also the case that some depositors have requested a closure period on the records which Gwent Archives looks after on their behalf. This may be because the records contain sensitive or personal information.

Fragile Items

Documents arrive at Gwent Archives in all sorts of conditions, and some are too fragile for continued use by researchers.

If an item cannot be issued, staff will:

- Explain why it cannot be used
- Suggest other suitable sources or alternatives for use
- Where possible, advise on how to apply for permission to view the item

<sup>1</sup> "For personal information and information linked to identifiable living individuals, The National Archives and the Advisory Council advocate a closure period of 'lifetime' of the data subject. This assumes a lifetime of 100 years..." <https://www.nationalarchives.gov.uk/documents/information-management/closure-periods.pdf>

Closure Periods

Definition of Closure

Closure refers to the last date of a record, e.g. a School Log Book, which covers the period 1910-1946 and is closed for 96 years, is therefore under restricted access until 1 January 2043.
